About/How to use this resource:

Growth mindset is such a powerful tool! I love the message in this fun loving book, Giraffes Can't Dance. Even though poor Gerald feels like he can't dance, he doesn't give up! He keeps trying until he can! What a powerful message for our students! The power of YET!

In this resource, students get to color Gerald the giraffe, and complete their own YET story. Writing prompts include text to self, opinion, and narrative. Discussion questions are also included. Just click, print, and go! An easy project for your kiddos! I hope you enjoy! ☺

Discussion Questions:

1. When we read this word “clumsy”, what do you think it means?
2. Why do you think Gerald feels clumsy?
3. When Gerald went to the Jungle Dance and saw all the animals were great dancers, how do you think it made him feel?
4. How did Gerald feel when the animals were laughing at him? By looking at the picture, how do you know he felt that way?
5. Has anyone ever been laughed at before? How did it make you feel? Show me what kind of face you make when you feel that way.
6. What kind of friend was the cricket to Gerald? How did he help Gerald?
7. Did Gerald give up when the animals made fun of him?
8. Have you ever practiced something to get better at it, like Gerald practiced his dancing?
9. In the beginning of our story, Gerald couldn't dance YET. Is there something that you can't do YET that you are going to keep trying to get better?
